

Shame On You Olive Garden!!

Darden Restaurant Group which owns Olive Garden and countless other chain restaurants, is allowing the exploitation of construction workers at their Olive Garden location @ 92-50 59th Ave. Queens, NY.

And while the company's CEO makes $8.5 million each year, many of the company's employees are paid just $2.13 per hour, forcing them to live on the tips you voluntarily pay them at the end of your meal. Many workers hours are being cut in an effort to avoid healthcare costs.

Untrained and unskilled construction workers leads to an unsafe workplace, shoddy workmanship and produces a lower quality finished product.

While New York City construction workers build our city, help show your support for their desire to work in a safe environment, receive a living wage, and be treated with the dignity and respect they deserve.

Call Darden @ (407) 245-4000 and tell them all workers deserve a living wage.

This leaflet is directed at the public and is not an inducement for anyone to stop working or making deliveries.
